Kad zakaže sustav, kad se građanin više nema kome obratiti i kad ga beskrupulozna administracija izbacuje iz kuće ili stana, tada u pomoć stižu mladi aktivisti koji svojim tijelima sprječavaju provedbu deložacija. Film "Kućo moja" kamerama s lica mjesta dokumentira mučne scene u kojima kordoni specijalne policije silom odvlače mlade, starce, žene, djecu... čija je jedina želja zaštititi svoj dom pred ovršiteljima. Prijetnje samoubojstvom, plač, tuga, molitva... Bahati nastupi bankarskih i sudskih ovršitelja najbolje oslikavaju dio mučnog spektra u kojemu mali čovjek bez posla i primanja živi u Hrvatskoj.

When the system fails, when a citizen has no one to turn to and when unscrupulous administration kicks him out of his house or apartment, then young activists come to help and try to stop eviction with their bodies. The film "Oh, My Home" records painful scenes in which cordons of special police draw young and old people, women and children, away by force, whose only wish is to protect their home before distraining officers. Suicide threats, crying, sorrow, prayer on the one hand and arrogant attitudes of bank and court distraining officers on the other are the best illustration of a part of painful spectrum in which an ordinary man without a job and income lives in Croatia.
